

MISSION STATEMENT

To encourage the awareness of agriculture and improvements in life skills and quality of life through promoting the production, marketing, and improvement of agricultural commodities and methods by hosting exhibitions intended to enrich the education of the community and at the same time support and promote the agricultural industry.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As the new President of the Kingston and District Agricultural Society, I welcome everyone to the 186th Kingston Fall Fair. Whether you are a volunteer, a member of the Society, a competitor or a spectator, you should be proud to be supporting our Society and helping keep a long standing tradition alive.

The Society has had its' troubled times in the past and through the hard work and dedication of our members we have survived and find ourselves in good standing at the present time. I commend everyone who has been involved in supporting the Kingston and District Agricultural Society.

Agriculture in general has many struggles but continues to survive through the hard work and dedication of those who love the land and the farming way of life. It is most important that we continue to showcase our local producers and equestrians and bring the country to the city for a few days each year.

In closing, I would like to thank Past President Gail Shook as well as all members of the Society for supporting me in this new position and helping me find my way. It has been a huge learning experience for me, and one that I am enjoying. I look forward to another successful Kingston Fall Fair in September.

Yvonne Compton, President

Kingston and District Agricultural Society
